Two Staff Members Test Positive for Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19)

On Tuesday, Jan. 5, we learned that two staff members of the Consulate General of Japan in Los Angeles tested positive for the novel coronavirus (COVID-19)

Both individuals are currently quarantined at home. We have confirmed that the infected individuals did not have close contact with other employees at the Consulate General, nor with any visitors to our office.

We regret that two staff members have been infected, and we will continue to do our utmost to prevent infections. We continue to take necessary steps to prevent infection and spreading of COVID-19 so that our work including ensuring the safety of Japanese nationals can be carried out without interruption.
